

Automatically Updating Generated Clients from the Server

Our customers wanted to be able to update all of the generated client programs without having to generate a new client program for each workstation.

If ServerLink is up-to-date on the server side, users will be recommended to update their connection client from the server.

Also, we store the client parameters locally and we offer the capability for the administrator to edit locally these parameters on a specific workstation if needed.

